My Library Story

I remember so well—

My mother, little brother and I took the bus from 1716 Chautauqua, out by WSU, to attend a special program at the library. Bill Martin was coming to talk about his new book, "Silver Stallion", a sequel to "Lightning, A Cowboy's Colt". I remember that the program was upstairs and that the author read the book to us with a beautiful voice. And then, wonders, my mother bought a copy of the book--and he signed it "Good wishes to my friend, Pamela---Bill Martin". The copyright date is 1949 and this event was not long after that.

Of course I still have the book and it represents to me the glory and wonders of a library! Thank you Wichita Public Library for that long-ago magical experience. I was lucky enough to attend Fairmount Elementary and even though the library was initially in the basement next to the boiler room, it still had magic. On to the grand libraries of Mathewson Junior High and East High.

In an attempt to pay back, I have served on the board of the Lafayette Public Library Foundation (Louisiana) as a member and officer.

So just in case you haven't started your "spring cleaning," it's not too late. And if a friend asks "what do I do with all of my books?" you will be there to help with the perfect answer. "Take them to the Library!"
